

Nguyen Thanh Ngoan (チヨールイ病院 消化器外科医 / 2017年7月9日～23日)

This was the first time, I arrived to Tsukuba city, Japan. I was impressed with sight and people here.

The Tsukuba city is covered by many trees. There are many gardens. Streets are very clean. How delightful it's to breathe the fresh air, to ride bicycle in the morning!

The Japanese is very kind, hospitable, helpful and humble. And luckily, I met Prof.Akiyama, Ms.Fukaya and Ms.Dan Linh who helped me to adapt to new environment quickly.

The Tsukuba hospital is very large and modern. It took me 2 days to remember the way from IMC room to GE department. In 2 weeks, practising in GE department, I collected a lot of valuable experiences. I really like what they work. They are workaholics, putting their job before all else. All doctor have these same good qualities such as: prudence, courage, self-discipline, perseverance, humility... In ground, all doctors participate with pleasant atmosphere. They are thoughtful of each patients. In operation, They perform very nice techniques and carefully follow the plan prepared the day before. That's great, I viewed 4 cases hepatectomy: 2 open and 2 laparoscopic. These cases were very difficult. I realized that i have to learn more and more. I am very grateful prof.Okouchi and all doctors in GE department.

I had the wonderful time in Tsukuba. I visited some famous places such as Tsukuba mountain, Shinto shrine, Buddha Daihatsu and tasted some traditional foods: shushi and ramen. I remember forever 2 weeks in Japan. It's good to study or travel in Japan. If I have a chance, I will return the Sunrise Country.

