

◆Dr. Tran Minh Truong (6/10/2015 - 9/10/2015) : チョーライ病院副院長

First of all, I would like to send my sincere thanks to University of Tsukuba Hospital has invited me to visit your hospital.

Tsukuba is an academy city where many prestige scientists were from and brought fame to Japan. Regarding culture aspect, Japan and Vietnam have many similar points, and this trip was good chance for me to experience Japanese values and culture. I had time to observe Japanese daily activities and shopping habits. Although the cost of living in Tsukuba is high but is lower than in Tokyo.

At Tsukuba hospital, I had chance to observe the working mechanisms of a big hospital with clinical lab unit at training center, where many foreign students come to learn and many professors were trained and graduated from. Not few of them have come to Vietnam as technical cooperation. I have observed the clinical practice unit with modern equipment that we are about to equip for Cho Ray hospital.

University of Tsukuba hospital is very well equipped and modern with highly skilled staffs and good facility. I am very happy to meet many Cho Ray hospital staffs come there to study and I think the current cooperation program between Cho Ray hospital and Tsukuba hospital will bring many fruitful results.

I have observed and learned the working procedures of some departments such as outpatient, operating theater. The organization structure of the hospital helps the patients in approaching the doctors with more convenience hence improve the quality of medical services.

After this visit, I have worked with my colleagues in ENT department and I hope there will be many other cooperation programs in training and scientific research.

During the visit, I have interesting experience with Japanese cuisine, not only an art in presenting but also very good taste, which is good reflect of Japanese long cuisine history.

In general, the visit came at ease thanks to the friendly Japanese colleagues have brought to me in the short four days. Again, I would like to thank University of Tsukuba hospital has given me this successful trip.
